Libera Me
(Deliver Me)

Requiem for Society

Total Time: 3'03"

Preface...

Libera Me is a musical representation of humanity's battle against the machine (industrialisation). It depicts a world where the characteristics of humanity – spirituality, individuality and beauty – have been replaced by a void of indirection, conformity and ugliness. Despite humanity's continued plea for deliverance ('Libera Me'), the machine finally triumphs as humanity is converted into nothing more than a collage of glissandos, hisses and measured dissonant chords.

The work consists of two groups – humanity and the machines.

Humanity consists of:

- Four soloists:
 - Soprano
 - Alto
 - Tenor
 - Bass
- Piano

The machines consist of:

- Three voices (whispered and spoken):
 - Female
 - Male I
 - Male II
- Violin
- Percussion I:
 - Brake Drum
 - Cabassa
 - Claves
 - Mark Tree
 - Ratchet
 - Sizzle Cymbal
 - Snare
 - Tam-tam
 - Triangle
 - Two metronomes – ♩ = 120, ♩ = 144
- Percussion II:
 - Bass drum
 - 4 toms – different pitches.
- Piano (strings)

The piano acts as a representative of both – capable of portraying either characteristic.

Lighting is also used to add tension. The auditorium is completely dark at the start and finish but blazes into hues of red, yellow and orange by bar 40.

The Text...

The text is drawn from parts of the traditional Requiem (Mass for the Dead). It is uttered by the voices (machines) to signify the death of humanity. 'Libera Me' (deliver me) is also uttered by the humanity (soloists) as a plea for liberation from the oppressive constraints imposed by the machines. The following translations are provided:

Requiem aeternam dona eis, Domine.
Et lux perpetua luceat eis.

*Eternal rest give unto them, O Lord
And let perpetual light shine upon them.*

Lacrimosa dies illa,
Qua resurget ex favilla
Judicandus homo reus.
Huic ergo parce, Deus:
Pie Jesu Domine:
Dona eis requiem. Amen

*That day is one of weeping,
on which shall rise again from the ashes
the guilty man, to be judged.
Therefore spare this one, O God,
merciful Lord Jesus:
Give them rest. Amen.*

Domine, Jesu Christe, Rex gloriae,
libera animas omnium fidelium defunctorum
de poenis infernei
et de profundo lacu.

*Lord Jesus Christ, king of glory,
Deliver the souls of all the faithful departed
from the pains of hell
and the bottomless pit.*

Libera me, Domine, de morte aeterna
in die illa tremenda
quando coeli movendi sunt et terra,
dum veneris judicare saeculum per ignem.

*Deliver me, O Lord, from eternal death
on that awful day
when the heavens and earth shall be shaken
and you shall come to judge the world by fire.*

Performance Notes...

The work begins with a mechanical soundscape. A metronome, representing the entrapment within the constraints of time, ticks away as voices whisper and the violin, piano and percussion interweave in a collage of menacing sounds.

At bar 11, a solo tenor enters beginning humanity's plea for deliverance. The bass and alto enter staggered, and then combine with the soprano in a rich four-part harmony – giving the listener some hope of salvation for the humans. However the reassurance is unfounded as the machines return – faster and more fanatically.

At 23, the soprano sets the tone for the battle by heralding 'libera me' accompanied by a strong crescendo. However, the first attempt is drowned out by adamant machines. At 26 and the second attempt succeeds leading to a harmonious four-part counterpoint at 28. But the victory is short-lived, and at 32, the machines have once again drowned out humanity.

At 36, humanity returns to battle once more but a sense of foreboding is prevalent as machines continue underneath. At 40, humanity makes one last attempt at liberation but furious machines smash through their barrage resulting in cracked humanity of glissandos and hissing. With one final bolt from the machines at 48 and 49, humanity is reduced to being another part of the machine – fading to nothing with measured dissonant chords.

EXPLANATION OF SYMBOLS...

Soloists

- Glissando from a definite pitch to as low as possible (indefinite pitch).
- X refers to the number of crochet beats the glissando must be completed by.
- The vertical line intersecting the glissando line denotes 'cracking' from the head to the chest voice.
- (Where indicate in the tenor part, the small circle above the note denotes falsetto).

Piano

Harmonic – the pianist is instructed to lightly place his/her finger on the string at the required harmonic with the right hand as the left hand plays the lower note. Harmonics should be found before performance and indicated on strings.

String gliss – use the fingernails to scrape across the strings. Pitch indicated is approximate and should be used only as an indication to required register.

Vertical gliss – use fingernails to scrape along one string. On a grand piano, arrows pointing up are scraped away from the player. Arrows pointing down are scraped towards the player.

String roll – use the knuckles to consecutively knock on the strings producing a haze of sound.

Violin

Realisation of this accelerando notation figure:

- Denotes a rapid alteration of up-bow and down-bow; but including getting faster in the middle whilst starting and ending slower. In this example, the faster section is also louder.
- Bend – denotes a gradual shift in pitch of less than a semitone (in this case, quarter-sharp). The line shows the direction of the pitch fluctuation.
- Sul pont. – sul ponticello; play near the bridge.

Strings:

- I, II, III, IV – string numbers: I is the E string, IV is the G string.
- Sul G – play on the G string
- 2. _____ – play in second position.

Bowing and plucking:

-  – strong down-bow; accent down-bow to give distortion.
-  – snap; when plucking the string, use the finger to snap the string against the fingerboard.
- Au tallone – play at the heel of the bow.

Requiem for Society

The hall is completely dark except for pit lamps for the musicians. As the music builds, the lighting slowly becomes more intense with hues of reds, yellows and orange - reaching its climax by bar 40. At bar 51, the lighting begins to fade once more to total darkness.
