Question 11 (15 marks)

(a) What is special about the Heidelberg printing shop?

It is a printing shop that specialises in issues about the law, history and special knowledge. Events that occurred in that street, all of course, its publishing is considered better than any computer because of the special events in the street.

(b) What takes place in this street?

Only a great handwriting people go here and a lot of them write and help with history and news books. And also it is a place were people write news from from information about the street.

(c) What is so unusual about the libraries in this street?

There is many of them and they are placed all throughout this street. Some of them even have special libraries that discuss in parts the famous Arabic writers. Also there is a library for women in a certain area. It is also considered the most closest library out of all the libraries.

(d) What is meant by the following expression?

هَذَا هُوَ قَلِيلٌ مِّنَ الْكِتَابِ الَّذِي يَزْدَخِرُ بِهِ شَارِعُ الْمَنْتَبِّ

That this is only a slight hint of all the great things that are available in that occur in this street. It is saying that even though they're writer quite often on this street it is still a little small compared to what this street is actually like.

Question 11 continues on page 5
Question 11 (continued)

(e) Why does the author refer to this street as the best street in the world?

Because it has the best books & libraries. It is a great tourist attraction. Many writers & publishers like to come to this street to write or read about it. The libraries are unusual because of being open to everyone. This street coffee shops are very interesting & fun.

The famous, Heinrich, publishing is. Many firms are located here. It is a great street for writers to go here & allow themselves to get ideas to write about. Also, because it is a very fun street. There are many shops. It is famous for its old & interesting coffee shops.

(f) How is this street in Baghdad best described?

(A) It is famous for its coffee shops.
(B) It is a place to go to for a break, away from pressure and stress.
(C) It is where people plan to meet each other.
(D) It is full of Iraqi books.

(D) It is full of Iraqi books.

End of Question 11